I am a glass Artist that lives in Texas. While I know the air quality does not affect me, the stop of production of glass that you are proposing will cause a hardship all over the United States and other countries. Many artist only use Bullseye as their vendor. This would be a tremendous damage to the glass community and our businesses. I do support the filtering that they already preparing to do. However, to delete production any longer with the result that may cause them to close could cause other smaller business to close or raise their prices to the point that glass as we know it now in the community would stop.

I ask that you consider the damage to the glass industry that shutting them down or ceasing production of 50% of their glass will cause. There must be some way that they can satisfy both your needs and ours as artist. I am sure this has already caused glass to go up again and this will affect all the glass companies. Raising the price of all glass will affect the whole economy such as raising the price of gasoline does. It's a ripple affect.

Thank you for your time.
