Dear Mr Hammond,

In my fifteen year association with Bullseye glass, I know them to be people of integrity with a long history of responsible operation. I stand with Bullseye Glass in their efforts as members of the community who are concerned with sound practices that respect the environment.

The decisions you are making must be based on scientific data and not fear or politics. A leading scientist, Dr. LaCourse has said Bullseye's furnaces do not produce toxic chromium. Please do not rush to impose misdirected rules.

I appreciate any support you can provide.
