Hi George,

I have a question about language you suggested on one of the response-to-comment sections. What did you mean by the section I highlighted below?)

Comment: Emissions monitoring

DEQ should require monitoring of emissions rather than monitoring of the control devices.

Response

Monitoring of emission control devices is required to help ensure that the control devices continue to perform properly. This type of monitoring is typical and is often used in lieu of more expensive emissions monitoring. The rules also require CAGMs to apply for permits, and the permits will likely require some form of emissions monitoring.
