Meyer: Here are my comments.

1. Where you have suggested a change to the language to "DEQ approved," I suggest that it should be "that DEQ has approved." Otherwise, we lose the active nature of DEQ's approval, and it begins to sound like maybe there's an approved list somewhere, when these are requirements that specific devices be proposed and approved by DEQ staff.

2. Where you have suggested a change to the language "OAR XXX requires," I suggest that the provisions should say, "that complies with OAR 340-244-9080." Those other provisions are not independently applicable, they are only applicable via this cross-reference, and so this cross-reference needs to clearly state that they are compliance requirements, and not imply that they may independently apply.

Otherwise, your edits look fine to me, but some could potentially be substantive and so I recommend that you also run these by Jill and George.

Paul,

I made some passive language changes, and added some sections to make it easier to read. My changes are all in orange. Just tell me if you have any concerns, and I will fix problems on SharePoint here.
