Yes. It is fixed.

Thank you.

Oops, my mistake, sorry about that! I believe that is now corrected, if you could confirm?

Patrick,

It looks like all the mailboxes are cleaned out, up and running. I have a question about one, the cleanfuels2016. All of the others let me use the standard password. It turns out I did have to log in to the accounts because they all had autoreplies turned on and I didn't want that. The cleanfuels2016 told me I needed to change the password, and would not let me use the standard password because it was not long or complicated enough. Are you able to reset the password on that mailbox so that it has the same password as the other rulemaking mailboxes? It would be simpler to have the same password for all these mailboxes.

Thank you.
