Our standard practice is to send the first notice to a broad list, but to create a specific list for a rulemaking if it does not fall under another existing list. We tell people to sign up for the list specific to the rulemaking so that we don't keep sending notices to the thousands of people on the general rulemaking list who aren't interested in this specific rulemaking. I'll have the web team create a govdelivery for this rulemaking.

There is no longer an active ballast water govdelivery list, and the subject matter does not significantly overlap with any of the other established lists. Given the large # of subscribers to the rulemaking list, I think that sending it to that list alone will be sufficient.

Thanks,
Rian

Rian,

I will send out a govdelivery notice of the ac meeting. I have attached a list of all DEQ govdelivery mailing list. I always send to the rulemaking list, but can you please tell me what other lists I should send notice to about your rulemaking.

Thanks.
