Meyer,
I'm finding that my plate is rapidly approaching overflow for the next 3 weeks.
At this point, I am planning to block out some time during the week after labor day to a) review online resources describing the new rulemaking process, b) meet with you, if necessary, to clarify project particulars, and c) fill out the necessary forms to formally request a rulemaking launch.

Will this timeline be adequate to get you the information you need for including the ballast water rulemaking proposal in your September meeting with Dick?

Do you have any time on September 10th or 11th to meet (my calendar is wide open at this point)?

Thanks,
Rian

Rian,

The planning documents for your Ballast Water rulemaking are in the folder linked below. Have a look and then we'll talk about them.
