Thanks Ike, I'm fine with making that note, I would just suggest a slightly different way of formatting since Kristen ends up pasting these into a master list with a fixed number of columns. I've attached a copy of what I'm thinking. And yes the dates column should refer to when the case was closed, which is when the retention clock begins.

One random question (looping in Becka in case she has any thoughts): is it possible any of these cases would have touched on PFAS? Given how long ago I'm guessing not, but want to double check due to the litigation hold.

Barring that, and if the attached looks ok to you all, you're approved on my end to proceed with the destruction.

Cheers,
Leela

Hi Leela,

Can I get your approval for this record destruction log? See Becka's note below and let me know what we should do.

I'm starting to go through our files, so I will have a lot more of these logs coming your way in the future.

Thanks,
Ike

Approved! Thanks for all the work on this Ike. This is a big chunk you've knocked off. Great work. You can ask Leela, but we may want to add a column that shows that we actually applied a 10 year schedule. I did that in the attached.

The only other question I have is – Is the "date" listed in the last column the date we closed the file?

Hi Becka,

Can I get your approval for the attached record destruction log? This is only 5 file cabinets of files.

Thank you,

Thanks, Leela! I am not aware of any PFAS regulations we've had to enforce so I don't think we'd have any enforcement cases about it (I think EPA just recently promulgated the first regs for wastewater treatment facilities). And as you note, all of these cases are at least 10 years old. So I think we are good there to go ahead and destroy these. Thanks for your help and great work like getting through a good chunk of the OCE files.

Becka

Thanks Ike, I'm fine with making that note, I would just suggest a slightly different way of formatting since Kristen ends up pasting these into a master list with a fixed number of columns. I've attached a copy of what I'm thinking. And yes the dates column should refer to when the case was closed, which is when the retention clock begins.

One random question (looping in Becka in case she has any thoughts): is it possible any of these cases would have touched on PFAS? Given how long ago I'm guessing not, but want to double check due to the litigation hold.

Barring that, and if the attached looks ok to you all, you're approved on my end to proceed with the destruction.

Cheers,
Leela

Hi Leela,

Can I get your approval for this record destruction log? See Becka's note below and let me know what we should do.

I'm starting to go through our files, so I will have a lot more of these logs coming your way in the future.

Thanks,
Ike

Approved! Thanks for all the work on this Ike. This is a big chunk you've knocked off. Great work. You can ask Leela, but we may want to add a column that shows that we actually applied a 10 year schedule. I did that in the attached.

The only other question I have is – Is the “date” listed in the last column the date we closed the file?

Hi Becka,

Can I get your approval for the attached record destruction log? This is only 5 file cabinets of files.

Thank you,
